HONGKONG, MARCH 9TH, 1910.

A DECADE ago much discussion was going on in Great Britain concerning the exhaustion of our coalfields. Experts had been telling the public that, assuming the increase in output continued at the same rate as in recent years, the coal supply of Britain would not last more than another 150 years. An export duty on coal sent to Continental ports was advocated, so as to conserve the store of energy and power on which the future greatness of the nation was assumed to depend. Mr. BALFOUR, commenting on the subject at that time in a lecture delivered at Cambridge, remarked: "Marvellous as is the variety and ingenuity of modern industrial methods, they almost all depend, in the last resort, upon our supply of useful power, which is principally provided for us by methods which, as far as I can see, have altered not at all in principle and strangely little in detail since the days of WATT. Coal, as we all know, is the chief reservoir of energy from which the world at present draws, and from which we in this country must always draw; but our main contrivance for utilizing it is the steam engine, and by its essential nature the steam engine is extravagantly wasteful. Let a second WATT arise; let him bring into general use some mode of extracting energy from fuel which shall only waste 80 per cent. of it, and lo! your coalfields as sources of power are doubled at once." A second WATT has not, alas! arisen to accomplish all this, and the process of exhausting the coalfields of Great Britain has been going on at an ever-increasing rate. But we seem to be on the eve of great changes in this connection. It was announced in a London newspaper three weeks ago that the British Admiralty, after a secretly-conducted, but none the less exhaustive, series of trials and tests with smaller craft extending over many years, has at last decided definitely to adopt the principle of oil fuel as a substitute for coal in the British Navy. If that is so, it is certainly, as the paper says, no exaggeration to say that the Admiralty has thereby initiated the greatest revolution in the equipment of the Navy since steam supplanted sail—a revolution so full of possibilities that it is impossible to conjecture what the ultimate outcome will be. It is well known that within the last few years the Government has been erecting oil-fuel storage works at many of the naval bases in Home waters and elsewhere, and the statement is made that the oil tanks already completed have a storage capacity of 500,000 tons of liquid fuel. Last month the Admiralty called for tenders for 50,000 tons, or more than eleven million gallons, of liquid fuel for the current year, but as soon as this was divulged, in the Press the Admiralty doubled the order. The price at which the fuel is offered is stated to be approximately 23s. a ton, so it is seen by a simple arithmetical calculation that the Admiralty have thus committed themselves in a single transaction to an expenditure of considerably more than £1,000,000 this year for the purchase of oil fuel. One half of the contract, it is stated, is to be awarded to Roumania, the intention of the Admiralty being to fill up the storage tanks now from "independent sources—largely American and Continental"—and then to rely on shale and Colonial oils for fuel purposes in time of war. Petroleum supplies are known to exist in abundance at every point on the frontier of the Empire—in Canada, Egypt, Burma, Borneo, Australasia, the West Indies, South Africa and Nigeria—and if we really are on the eve of this great revolution in the Navy it is obvious that a tremendous flip will be given to oilfield exploitation and drilling in the next few years—especially the oilfields of the British colonies. The advantages claimed for the use of liquid fuel in the Navy are many and weighty, and the adaptation of the ships for burning this fuel does not apparently form an insuperable obstacle to the change; for, in the first place, it is stated that the existing furnaces for burning coal are adaptable to the consumption of oil; secondly, most of the modern battleships are stated to be already fitted to burn oil as well as coal, and, finally, all the new destroyers and torpedo-boats are built to burn oil alone. And if this revolution takes place in the Navy we may confidently look forward to a greatly extended use of oil-fuel generally.

It used to be said that the coal problem would be always with us; but the time seems to have been reached when we may cast doubts on the prophecy.

A correspondent writing under date of the 19th February last from Jesselton, B. N. Borneo, says:—"We have twin weather-hots to prevent incessant rain all over the country, rivers are in flood, some parts of the railway track are under water and the train is unable to pass. Is this a sign of the approach of Halley's Comet?"

In one respect Japan can teach a lesson to the European Powers, and that is on the virtue of resilience. While we and our neighbours (writes the Pall Mall Gazette) have been writing and talking of all the ships we can, or ought to build, or have not built, our Asiatic ally has been steadily adding to the effective strength of her fleet without telling even her own people.

The ingenuity of the Chinese is always seeking fresh outlets for smuggling. Yesterday morning a man on landing from the Kongmoum steamer was accused by the Opium Farmer's man, who found that an innocent-looking turnip which he had among his baggage was filled with opium. He was brought before the Magistrate, who imposed a fine of $50.

A man named John Gillies, who had been employed as an engineer by Messrs. Jardine Matheson & Company for over twenty years and who resigned in January, 1907, is now being inquired for through the police by his wife and family in Scotland. He suddenly disappeared in February, 1907, leaving his box and other property in the Engineers' Institute, and nothing has since been heard of him.

The many friends of Mr. J. E. Thompson, of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, will regret to learn of his departure from Bangkok owing to continued ill-health, says the Malay Mail Times. He left for Home, and will have to be on sick leave for some time. This was Mr. Thompson's second period of service in Bangkok, and his sound business ability and genuine character won him the high esteem of all with whom he was brought in contact.

Two men were arrested when leaving the Kongmoum steamer yesterday morning. One was found carrying a quantity of opium in a girdle round his waist. He explained that the second defendant had given him the opium to carry and had paid him twenty cents for his trouble. The second defendant admitted this. The first man was yesterday ordered to pay a fine of $10; four days' imprisonment and the second was fined $160.

A smart capture was made by a lakong yesterday morning. About four a.m. he noticed a long-coated man walking about. Having his suspicion aroused the lakong followed him for three-quarters of an hour, by which time the man had come up with five others at the Ko Sing Theatre. The lakong then dashed into the crowd of the company and arrested the long-coated man and a coolie. On the latter were found two daggers, a packet of pepper and a gag, an orbit which shows they were bent on no lawful purpose.

A marriage has been arranged, and is expected to take place in Yokohama in May, between Lieutenant Basil John Douglas Guy, V.C., R.N. of H.M.S. Otter, China Squadron, and Miss Kathleen Strome, youngest daughter of C. J. Strome, Esq., of the British Yokohama. Lieutenant Guy was awarded the V.C. for gallantry displayed during the Boxer riots in China on July 13, 1900, in trying to save the life of an able-bodied seaman while the Naval Brigade was fighting across a plain under fire in order to attack the native city of Tientsin.

Capt. Stockley, who has resigned his appointment as A.D.C. to His Excellency the Governor of the Straits Settlements in order to devote his future energies to rubber, left for home with Mrs. Stockley last week. Capt. Stockley, who has sent in his papers, will be engaged in London for some time, but it is possible that his many friends in Malaya will have the opportunity of meeting him again in the Straits at some date not very remote.

Capt. Stockley as A.D.C. to His Excellency.

A Berlin telegram says:—Dr. Paul Lehrbach, the German Asiatic expert, declares that China has promised to repay the United States for her diplomatic support by granting valuable concessions to the American Steel Trust. He also states that he has obtained possession of a secret circular sent by the American Government to all American Consular agents in China informing them that their abilities will be judged solely by the measure of increased trade between their districts and the United States, and that their chance of promotion is proportionate.

According to telegram from Peking, Prince Ching has in consequence of the repeated impeachments and the unfavorable public opinion of him, decided to retire at an early date. The majority of the Censors are dissatisfied with the punishment meted out to Kiang Ching-chin and have jointly memorialized the Throne to publish his impeachments of Prince Ching for the information of the world. Censor Wu Shih-ching has memorialized the Throne asking whether in view of the fact that Kiang Ching-chin was punished for impeaching Prince Ching without having had his offence properly investigated, they should impeach Imperial princes at all in future.

CHINESE ORDERS FOR KRUPP'S.

An Essen telegram says:—In the presence of artillery officers of the Chinese Army recently, tests were made of Krupp guns and French weapons. The Krupp gun was declared to be superior, in consequence of which the Krupp works received an order from the Chinese Government for 200 light mountain guns to be delivered within two years.

The Japanese Government has again sent several high officials to Krupp's, who will probably give large orders for guns.

For some time past there has been a persistent statement that the Admiralty intend to dispatch some battleships to the Far East. It would be difficult, says the Naval and Military Record, to inspire a rumour more entirely contrary to the whole trend of naval policy and more easy of refutation. In the first place, battleships are not required in the Far East. It has never been the custom for the Admiralty to keep armoured ships of the heaviest type in the China Seas. Until it became necessary to neutralize Russia's growing naval power in the China Seas, we never had a battleship in those waters. They were sent there as a temporary measure to meet a temporary need, as soon as that need ceased to exist they were withdrawn. Nothing could indicate more clearly the absence of all foundation for such rumours better than the fact that Vice-Admiral Sir Alfred Windsor, the new Commander-in-Chief of the China Fleet, is flying his flag, not in a battleship, but in the armoured cruiser Minotaur.

CANTON.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT]

March 6th.

BURNING A WHARF.

An incident occurred some few nights ago which is interesting not only as showing the peculiar spirit of revenge that seems to animate the people here, but also the very slight power of control exercised over the populace by the officers of the law. On the now Bund is, or rather was, a wharf at which the passenger junk trading to and from Shiu Hing was wont to start and return. It so happened that on the downward voyage on the day in question a passenger refused to pay his full fare—a sum of three cents more being required. There was a row and scuffles, and whether by accident or design the offending passenger was pushed into the water and there met his fate. On arrival at the wharf the news of this occurrence soon spread among the people on the bund, and in less time than it takes to write there was an excited throng vowing vengeance on the junk, the wharf and all connected with it. First one piece and then another of the wood of the structure was pulled down and the crowd got bigger and bigger. At this stage a posse of police arrived on the scene and seized two of those who appeared to be most energetic in their work of destruction. There was, immediately a fight, and the whole crowd was seething with commotion. The police succeeded in holding their men, but could do nothing to curb the violence of the crowd, which was now ripe for any devilment. The top of the wharf was covered with the remains of a thatch and before long this was pulled to the ground and ignited. Soon the wharf and the junk were a mass of flames rising to a great height. There was a very great number of sampans at this spot and the owners pulled out into the river in terror of their lives. At this juncture a steam launch on the river began to pump water on the blazing junk, but the enraged crowd shouted that they would destroy that craft also if it did not desist. The policemen in their utter powerlessness actually made signs to the launch to clear off, which it did. At this moment an official in his chair came on the scene and endeavoured to get the people to disperse. It was of no avail, for the crowd took no notice of him than if he did not exist. Seeing he could do no good he re-entered his chair and was carried back from whence he came. In the meanwhile fire whistles had been blowing vigorously and several manual engines were soon on the outskirts of the crowd trying to clear a way to the scene of destruction. It was in vain, however, for the mob would not let them approach the fire and kept them off until the wharf and junk were utterly destroyed. It was a sight to be remembered by those who in a building on the opposite side of the road could look down on the sea of evil faces that were dilated with the brutal spirit of destruction and the reflection of the flames lighting up the distorted countenances. There is not a worse sight in the world than an enraged mob of low-class Chinese, their passions worked up almost to madness. It has been my lot to look upon the like on three occasions and each time the spectacle seems worse than before. The flames at last died down and all that now remains of the wharf is a blackened and charred post and a few half-burned timbers. To the telegraph poles in the vicinity and on the charred post are now affixed Viceroy notices offering a reward of $50 for the apprehension of the ringleaders, but it is doubtful whether any of the ruffians will ever be brought to justice.

EXTENSION OF THE BUND.

The new Bund, which now stretches from Tai Sha Tau Railway Station to the Yuen Han Ferry is to be extended. I have just been told that the contracts for the works were signed yesterday, and the Bund will, when completed, stretch from Tai Sha Tau to Wong Sha, thus connecting the two railway stations. This means that the Bund will take the course of the present Sha Ko, part of which is separated from Shau Kei by a creek or canal of no very great width. The road is to be 52 feet wide and part of the canal just mentioned is to be narrowed to the extent of 16 feet. The road is to be lighted by electricity, and electric trams will run the whole distance.

HONGKONG HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

ANNUAL EXHIBITION.

Good weather favoured the annual flower and vegetable show promoted by the Hongkong Horticultural Society which opened yesterday in the Botanic Gardens. The exhibition, beautiful and instructive in itself, was greatly enhanced by its picturesque surroundings, and the large attendance of the public who patronised the show must have appreciated the opportunity afforded them of seeing nature in some of its loveliest aspects. The beauty of the flowers and the high standard of excellence found in the vegetables were little short of remarkable when the long drought is remembered, and the results must be regarded as highly satisfactory. Not only was the quality of the exhibits up to the usual standard, but the entries were even more numerous, there being an increase of almost fifty per cent. in the vegetable section which is now open.

Judging was commenced yesterday morning and completed in good time for the opening of the exhibition in the afternoon. The gentlemen who undertook this work were: Messrs. H. Humphreys, D. W. Craddock, J. Barton, W. J. Tuthor, H. H. J. Gompertz, Mrs. Brewin, Mrs. Looker, and Miss Bryer, while valuable service was rendered in arranging the exhibits and supervising the staging by Messrs. Tuthor, Gibbs, Beavis, Patten, and Ho Kom Tong. The officials this year are: President, Mr. J. Barton; secretary, Mr. L. Gibbs; and treasurer, Mr. W. L. Patten. H. E. the Governor visited the exhibition in the course of the afternoon. The Rajput's musicians, under Bandmaster Coke, contributed pleasing selections during the afternoon.

RUBBER BOOM IN BRITISH NORTH BORNEO.

A correspondent writes:—"Things here progress with much greater vigour than hitherto owing to the rubber boom. New estates after new estates have been floated at Home, all with apparently ample capital, and easily placed at that, until to-day we have fourteen rubber estates in actual working here nearly all connected directly with the hundred miles of railway that runs inland from Jesselton. More are in the air, but it is a very handsome start in any case. On the other coast I hear progress is being made, too—both the New Darvel Bay Company, as well as the Tobacco Company of North Borneo, which has, at last, recommended operations in Darvel Bay, having started to plant rubber now. Why some companies do not start on Sandakan Bay, on the Labuk and Sugut Rivers, and the Lower Kinabatangan beats one, for all this land is very highly spoken of by those competent to know. The North Borneo Trading Co. have made a start up the Kinabatangan, and there is little doubt others will follow—unless the boom goes 'flat.' The profits one hears of are very tempting, however, and some people, who ought to know, think the boom will at least last until the back end of this year, if not even into the Spring of next. So there's more time to make money in rubber—if you know how and where!"

THE SHARKS' FINS CASE.

The hearing of the appeal was commenced in which the Ki Hing Lau firm are appellants and the Shun-Loung Lee firm respondents.

The appellants asked that the judgment of

Mr. Justice Gompertz of 16th February, 1910, be set aside on the ground that the judgment was wrong in law, inasmuch as the contract on which the action was founded was made for an immoral purpose.

Mr. C. J. Alabaster, instructed by Mr.

W. E. L. Shenton of Messrs. Deacon, Coker & Deacon, appeared for appellants, and Sir

Henry Berkeley, K.C., instructed by Mr. Otto

Kong Sing, appeared for the respondents.

Mr. Alabaster, after reading the evidence adduced in the Court below, submitted that on

SUPREME COURT.

Tuesday, 8th March.

IN APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

BEFORE THE FULL COURT.

THE BASEL MISSION SLANDER ACTION.

A motion for leave to appeal to the Privy Council from the decision of the Full Court was presented on behalf of the President in Hongkong of the Basel Evangelical Missionary Society, who was the plaintiff in the action for slander against the Sheng Po Newspaper Company.

Mr. M. Slade, K.C., instructed by Mr. Looker, appeared for appellants, and Sir Henry Berkeley, instructed by Mr. Otto Kong Sing, appeared for respondents.

Mr. Slade, in opening, said the decision of the Court in the case affected a vast number of corporations.

But shortly, the decision was that where a corporation was carrying on its profession or business through its servants and a libel is published upon its servants imputing a criminal offence to them or any of them as such servants in the performance of their duty as such servants and in consequence of such false allegations against the servants of the corporation, the corporation was injured pecuniarily; it could not recover in an action for libel although the false words complained of, spoken of the servants in the execution of their duty, had caused damage to it, and it could only recover on proof of special damage.

He submitted that on the question was one of the highest importance to all corporations carrying on business in Hongkong and China.

Proceeding, he reminded their Lordships that there were a number of missionary societies incorporated by Ordinance in Hongkong, such as the London Missionary Society, the French Mission, and the Berlin Ladies' Mission.

Besides these missionary societies trading corporations would be affected by the judgment of their Lordships whether they were specially incorporated like the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank or were incorporated under the Companies' Act, whether for purposes of profit or otherwise.

In conclusion he submitted that this was a case in which their Lordships should exercise their discretion under Rule 28, because the decision was one of great public and general importance.

Sir Henry Berkeley submitted that their Lordships had no power to grant the application, as the question involved in the judgment was not one of great general or public interest within the meaning of Rule 28.

He took it that that sub-section referred to cases where a new principle of great public importance was enunciated, but it did not extend to cases in which the Court followed well-established law.

Their Lordships had merely applied the stated rule of law on the facts before the Court.

The Chief Justice—The facts were exceptional.

Sir Henry Berkeley submitted that the plaintiff in supplying what he did supply? If it was established that the contract was made by the plaintiff in furtherance of that object, it was not enough to prove the mere fact that a man supplied bread or any other ordinary article of diet.

The Court must be satisfied, not only of the fact that he supplied the articles consumed, but that he, as a fact, had it in his mind at the time that he would be helping the house to be carried on.

It should be evident that he knew what he supplied was to be used in furtherance of the trade of immorality.

The fact that a man supplied champagne and wine and smokers was a fact from which an inference might be drawn adverse to him, but the fact that a man supplied articles of ordinary diet for daily consumption was not a fact from which an adverse inference should be drawn.

If the plaintiff charged a higher price than he did to other people, that would be evidence of his guilty knowledge.

The Chief Justice—Are you going to cite any authorities in support of this proposition?

Sir Henry Berkeley proceeded to cite authorities, and said his friend suggested that sharks' fins were necessary to induce people to a brothel.

People did not go to a brothel to eat sharks' fins, and no possible argument could be found against the plaintiff being entitled to recover on such an assertion as that.

If there were no sharks' fins, people would still go to brothels.

He contended there was no evidence to satisfy any

Court that it was the fact that the presence of sharks' fins would lead men to go to a brothel.

Mr. Alabaster here intervened to raise an objection regarding the law.

The Chief Justice—Whatever the law may be, you don't expect to get very strong sympathy from the Court. Your defence is bordering on the immoral, to say the least.

Sir Henry Berkeley, proceeding, pointed out that the word "brothel" in English had a sense

THE COUP D'ETAT IN TIBET.

AN OFFICIAL REPORT.

Chou Erh-sun, the Vicere of Szechuan, has wired to Viceroys and Governors and other local authorities regarding Tibetan affairs in order to enable them to explain the situation to the public. The message may be translated as follows:

"The detailed state of affairs since the Dalai Lama has fled are minutely described in the Imperial Decree of the 25th February. Regarding the internal administration of Tibet, it has been always in the hands of the Imperial Resident, and the Dalai Lama is not at all the head of administration of Tibet.

The Dalai Lama had control over religion only, and civil affairs have been entrusted to the Imperial Resident. Therefore since the Dalai Lama left he has all the priests and ordinary people of Tibet who were very peaceful and quiet. The Tibetans are naturally not people who wish any troubles. When the Dalai Lama returned to Lhasa from Peking he tried to deal with the priests and people who had fought against the British troops and punish them for not having fought well. Thus the Dalai Lama lost popularity. When the Chinese troops were sent to protect commercial centres in Tibet the Tibetans had no idea of opposing the troops. But the Dalai Lama forced them to raise troops, threatening the people with punishment if they disobeyed. The people have been unable to prevent the troubles caused by the Dalai Lama and they obeyed his order.

Thus when the Chinese troops entered Lhasa the Tibetans disband and the Chinese troops were able to enter Lhasa without any serious opposition. China has no idea of causing trouble against the Dalai Lama. The Dalai Lama himself was afraid that he would have trouble, as he raised troops and burned Government stores and yamen, which acts are punishable. Therefore, despite the assurance given by the Imperial Resident showing an Imperial Decree ordering him to be leniently treated, the Dalai Lama felt uneasiness and ran away at night before the arrival of the Chinese troops. The Imperial Resident sent men to fetch him, but in vain. China's object in sending troops to Tibet is only to protect newly-opened trade routes, as since trade routes have been opened the Tibetans have shown dislike to them, and there was fear of further troubles.

Thus China has sent troops to protect trade routes to show her friendship with Great Britain. After the Dalai Lama left the border and had been deprived of his title by China the Tibetans, priests and others have not shown any opposition. The trade routes are duly protected by the Imperial Resident. Thus it is expected that the trade in Tibet will be developed, and it is also the case that China is complying with the stipulations in the Anglo-Chinese Treaty of the latest date to reform internal administration of Tibet properly. Please publish this to wipe away any doubt of the affairs."—Shanghai Mercury.

BRITISH STEAM SHIPPING TRADE

KEEN FOREIGN COMPETITION.

The annual meeting of the Liverpool Steamship Owners' Association, was held on the 7th ult. The report states that the association now represents very nearly four million tons of steam shipping, up or upwards of 22 per cent. of the whole British steam tonnage afloat, and a much larger percentage of the fastest and largest vessels. The report commences upon the disproportionate increase between the tonnage and the employment of vessels under foreign flags as compared with that of vessels under the British flag, and adds that it was the best justification for the efforts made by the association for so many years to direct attention to the manner in which the British shipowner had been unnecessarily handicapped in the competition for the overseas carrying trade. The association has for many years fought to secure equal treatment for all vessels, British and foreign, in the ports of the Empire, to free British shipping from special and onerous taxation, and the abolition of obsolete and unnecessary rules and regulations. A considerable step had been taken by the Merchant Shipping Act of 1906, but the full effect of that Act was only now beginning to make itself felt. In reviewing the great progress made by foreign shipping during the last fifteen years, the report says that the British shipowners have not to reprobate themselves, for the tonnage now at their command had never been more efficient to meet the competition for the world's carrying trade, but if the shipping industry was to be maintained and foreign competition successfully met the British shipowner must be allowed in his business to deal with its constantly growing and changing requirements free from all unnecessary State interference.

CHINA AND FOREIGN MINING CONCESSIONS.

The Chinese are evidently determined to retain as many as possible of the mining concessions to foreigners, remarks the Peking correspondent of the N.C. Daily News. They were fortunate in regard to Sir John Lester Kaye's mine, for the amount paid as compensation was small from every point of view. Negotiations are now said to be going on between the Chinese Government and the Chinese Engineering and Mining Co., and some of Shanghai's legal representatives have paid visits to Peking and Tientsin in connection with that matter. Other concessions are being discussed, and in some instances China has refused to allow work to be carried on, and has subsequently refused to place this matter in the hands of arbitrators. It is quite easy to adopt such a policy with the British, for Britain has shown herself long-suffering to a fault, where the Chinese are concerned. The question is whether such a policy is appreciated by the Chinese and whether our good European neighbours do not count upon that factor and influence the Chinese against us. For China has so many foreign Powers to placate that she is all too ready to slight the interests of those who can easily be duped. Her weakness is an efficient argument in dealing with Britain, but there should be a limit to forbearance. The interests of China herself cannot be served by giving her a free hand just yet, for the Government is woefully weak and bribery still counts more than justice in all important questions of the day.
